

The Lakefield is adapted from an old model made by the LAKEFIELD CANOE Co., with its' flared sides, wide beam, nicely rising sheerline, and fullness at the ends, this canoe is reminiscent of tranquil, peaceful past times.

Its' design lends itself to many practical and functional uses, the Lakefield is capable of carrying substantial loads and is very dry riding in choppy water which makes it a good tripping canoe. Although practical, its' charm and beauty make the Lakefield an outstanding canoe that remains an important link to our Canadian canoe heritage.
